Ex-Altona man wins PGA golf

The record books will show that the 1977 Australian Telecom PGA championship was won by Michael Cahill, of Springvale, but the star golfer has ties with Altona.

Cahill, 25, lived in Altona from the age of six till a few years ago when he married.

He went to school at Seaholme Primary and Altona High and started his golfing career at Altona's Kooringal Golf Club.

And his parents still live in Millers Road.

Michael Cahill, pictured shortly after his Telecom PGA win at the weekend. He picked up a cool $20,000 for his effort.

Award to John

John Barron, a final year engineering degree student has won Footscray Institute of Technology's major award — the John L. Kept memorial scholarship.

John, 23, of Dove Street, Altona, won the award for his outstanding academic performance as well as "other commendable traits."

Mrs. I. Kept, widow of the former director of technical education presented the awards, last Tuesday. The late Mr. Kept was the first ex-student of the institute to gain a degree at Melbourne University in 1926.

John Barron also won the third year civil engineering diploma prize.

In other prizes, Mrs. Maureen Hopper, won the second year business studies degree prize.

Mrs. Hopper will become a teacher next year.

The first Tony Cosgrove memorial award, given in memory of the legal associate by the Western Region Law Association was won by Anthony Paone, a first-year business law student.

The prize for the best graduating student for the Bachelor of Civil Engineering went to Christopher Zoppou. Christopher also won the final year civil engineering degree award.

Bitterness grows on abattoir

A bitter row has developed between Werribee and Altona councils over the proposed abattoir in Doherty's Road, Laverton North.

Werribee Shire Council recently approved an application by Greenhams to build an abattoir in Doherty's Road, after meeting with representatives from both Altona and Sunshine councils.

Both Altona and Sunshine are against any further offensive industries being built in the western suburbs.

And Werribee councillors also gave Altona Council a blast at a recent council meeting, as reported in the Werribee Banner.

The report (October 26 edition) said:

"Werribee councillors, on Monday night, were highly resentful of what some called the hypocritical attitude of Sunshine and Altona councils.

"Cnr. George Cavanagh asked about the hypocrisy of Altona Council approving an abattoir at Blackshaws Road yet opposing one at Laverton North."

"Cr. Kevin Skehan said he was naive enough to want the meeting with Sunshine and Altona councils, but they proved they were not genuine, he said, merely playing politics."

It was the second occasion in recent months that Altona Council had been blasted by Werribee councillors for its stand against another abattoir being built in the west.

Altona mayor, Cr. Doug Grant, said it was unfair comment made by Werribee councillors, while Cr. Les Crofts said "it hurts to read these type of comments."

These comments that are attributed to Werribee councillors and I say attributed, do not do any good for local government or for the western region," said Cr. Crofts.

"If there have been problems in the past, then let's not use them as an excuse for future planning."

Cr. Crofts also corrected a claim that Altona Council was responsible for the abattoir in Blackshaws Road.

"Altona was part of Werribee council when the abattoir site was zoned," he said.

Cr. Grant represented Altona at the meeting with Werribee councillors, while Commissioner Alex Gillin represented Sunshine.

"They asked us our views on the proposed abattoir — Cr. Gillin said that Sunshine would oppose any more offensive industries — my comment was that we would probably do the same."

"Cr. Gillin of course is in a different position than me — he can speak for the whole council," said Cr. Grant.

Police solve $\frac{1}{3}$ of crime

Police from CIB offices in the west have solved more than a third of 10,000 crimes detected in their district since the start of this year.

Figures released last week show that the six main stations in the west, Footscray, Sunshine St. Albans, Williamstown, Victoria Dock and Laverton, had a clean-up rate of more than 35 per cent to September 30.

These figures were given to Labor's spokesman for crime, Mr. Tom Edmunds, MLA (Ascot Vale) on a question on notice in State Parliament last week.

Mr. Edmunds asked the Chief Secretary, Mr. Dickie for crime statistics metropolitan police divisions for the period January 1, 1977 to September 30.

The reply to Mr. Edmunds also revealed an alarming number of unprovoked assaults on police in metropolitan divisions.

These show that during the period January 1 to September 30, more than 1100 police were victims of unprovoked assaults. Of these, 50 were injured during the attacks.

There was no break-up for assaults on police in the western suburbs.

Police regard crimes as "cleared" when investigations show that no offence was committed, or that a person is charged, or admits guilt.

Of the six districts, in the west, Footscray had the highest number of crimes since January, with 2921. Sunshine came next with 2597.

Both divisions had a 35 per cent clean-up rate to September 30.

Victoria Dock, with more than 42 per cent, of crimes solved to September 30, had the highest clean-up rate. It had 289 crimes on its books, and of these, police cleared 122.

Williamstown's CIB solved 443 of the 1233 crimes on its books, a percentage of 36.

Laverton had a 38 per cent rate.

The west's clean-up rate compares favorably to other police districts. For example, at Carlton, it's 27.65 per cent, Coburg, 32 per cent, and Northcote, 23 per cent.

Nunawading's rate is 37 per cent and Doncaster's 47 per cent.

It's the Foleys' 50th

Norman and Iris Foley, of Yarra Street, Williamstown (pictured), celebrated their golden (50th) wedding anniversary last week — but they've known each other much longer than that.

"We've known each other since we were children. Our families were friends," said Mrs. Iris Foley.

"I first started going out with him when I was 15 years' old."

The Foleys have lived in Williamstown for the past three years and before that lived in Footscray for nine years, but they still consider Yarraville their home.

"We were both born and bred in Yarraville," said Mr Foley.

Both came from large families — Norman was one of 11 children while Iris (maiden name Caird) had seven brothers and sisters.

"The Caird family is well known in Yarraville," said Mrs Foley.

Mr. Foley ran a barber's shop in Ballarat Street, Yarraville, for 20 years before taking up a job with ICI, Whitehall Street, Yarraville.

Now 70, he worked there for 31 years before retiring.

The Foleys' anniversary was last Wednesday, but they waited until Saturday to celebrate.

A large group of friends and relations, including their five children — Norman, Betty, Audrey, Margaret and Sandra — attended the party.

Bingo the new thing at Altona North High School.

Every Tuesday at 7.30 pm parents and senior students get together in the school hall to play bingo.

A total of $450 has been raised from the three bingo sessions played so far. Films are another after-school activity. The school hires films, such as "Jaws", "Blazing Saddles", which the students can see free of charge.

The school council is calling a public meeting on tomorrow (November 17) at the school hall at 7.30 pm. Parents are urged to come along to discuss school activities.

Sports teacher Graeme Maltinson is managing the western zone's under-16 cricket squad. The Victorian under-16 championships will be held at Shepparton from November 27 to December 2.

Margaret Wood has been elected school captain for next year. Vice-captain will be Franca Costanza; sports captain, Jan Kennedy; deputy sports captain, Jenny Robertson.

Mary Bednarek, Elia Ingaunti, Michelle Tellus and Debbie Horeboc are counsellors.

Paisley High

Several students performed well in the recent inter-school athletic carnival.

Kerry Saunders, 17, won the open 100 metres hurdles while Debbie Hogg, 14, was second in the open walk.

Carol Hall was fourth in the same event and Debbie's sister, Julie, was fourth in the open girls' shot put.

Frank Grdovic was third in the open triple jump and Charles Yankos as third in the under-17 javelin.

Yankos was second in the Javelin at the all-schools' carnival.

Williamstown Tech.

The work-experience programme resulted in three boys getting apprenticeships and many others being offered places for 1978.

Most firms who took part in the scheme told the school they were satisfied with the boys' work, and are willing to participate in next year's programme.

More than 60 students took part in the scheme and were paid wages under a special Act.

For two weeks, they worked in various trades such as carpentry, motor mechanics, spray-painting, cooking and brick-laying.

Water safety show at pool

A public demonstration of water safety and life saving will be held at the Altona swimming pool on Tuesday, November 22 at 7 pm.

The demonstration aims to teach people to think about safety when they are in the water.

Normal pool admittance charges will apply.

Eyes for the road

Altona could have a group of citizens keeping an eye on motorists during the Christmas holiday period.

The Victorian Motorists, Safe-Driving Association has approached Altona Council to establish a group of between six and 20 observers to patrol the Altona area from December 15 to February 7.

The council agreed to refer the association's request to service organisations in the area to see if individual members would like to take part.

The association simply wants observers to note bad driving and road hazards in the area and make reports to the police.

It was stressed that no names would be reported to the police.

Costly Flame

The Gas and Fuel Corporation has nearly doubled its monthly bill for the gas lights outside the Altona civic offices.

For the last seven years the council has been paying a flat rate, monthly charge of $19.75 but the corporation has told the council that the charge will be $38.85 because of higher costs.

Kiosk at Lake

The council has given tentative approval for a portable kiosk to be set up at Cherry Lake.

Cr. Dan Duane said it was a case of community needs and that tenders should be invited for the sole rights of selling ice cream and soft drinks at Cherry Lake, but for a trial period only.

Spinning Wheel OK

The Altona Lions' Club

talk of Altona

will operate its spinning wheel at the corner of Blyth and Pier Streets on Saturday, December 24, and at Australian Carbon Black on February 18, 1978.

Proceeds will go to the Lions Club charity account and to the new Salvation Army hostel for the aged.

Officer Resigns

The council has accepted with regret the resignation of administrative officer Miss J. Bertram.

Miss Bertram has taken up a similar position with the City of Camberwell.

Extra Rate

The Altona Petroleum Refineries has confirmed that it will pay an extra rate of $100,000.

PRA had previously agreed with council that it would pay the extra rate, for one year only, to help recreation and open-space development in Altona.

The $100,000 will go towards the Paisley land purchase. The council share of the costs for the land is $160,000 with the State Government paying $320,000.

Dangerous wall to come down

A tiled-faced wall of a house in Verdon Street, Williamstown is in a "ruinous condition" and potentially dangerous, according to Mr. Garnet Price, the council's environment director.

He had barricades installed around the wall a fortnight ago to protect passers-by.

The wall is out of plumb and extensively cracked, Mr. Price reported to the council last week.

He got approval to serve a seven days' notice on the owner requiring him to demolish the worst section and to make the rest of the building secure.

The building is part of a vacant butcher's shop and dwelling at the corner of Verdon and Parker streets.

During repairs, the owner is to erect a fence or hoarding to protect the public. And the builder is to submit plans and specifications to council for approval.

INSPECTION WAS FAVORABLE: WEST

An inspection of Williamstown by the Victorian Grants Commission should produce "favorable results" the mayor, Cr. Simon West, told Council's last meeting.

Earlier that day, he had accompanied three members of the commission on an extensive tour of Williamstown to assess its disabilities.

This included the foreshore, rifle range, Point Gellibrand, the power station and railways area in Newport.

The mayor said the visitors had a "good understanding" of the city's problem caused by so many unrateable properties.

Cr. Peter Lalor, also in the inspection party, said later the council had "put a very strong case for greater consideration by the commission, in future".

Williamstown received a $370,000 grant from the commission this year. But council is hoping for more next year.

Bus stop

Owners of the milk bar at 74 Thompson Street have asked council to instal a seat at the bus stop outside their shop, which would benefit old people and waiting bus passengers.

The request was passed to the environment director for a report.

Coogee Lane

The poor condition of Coogee Lane behind Williamstown Hospital is concerning the hospital's executive director.

He has asked council to carry out urgent repairs, as a staff member was hurt in a fall there recently.

He also wants more signs installed around Williamstown, indicating the hospital's location.

Both matters were handed to the environment director for report or attention.

Dangerous corner

The intersection of Graham and Margaret streets, Newport West, is dangerous and has been the scene of several recent accidents, a resident has told council.

Ms. K. Perry of Victoria Street, suggests that "stop" or "give way" signs should be installed there to reduce the danger.

She has also asked council to cut down the weeds just inside the quarry fence, which block drivers' views.

The environment director is now considering metcon markings for the crossing, and the chief by-laws officer is checking the week growth.

Automatic doors

Council has asked for a report on the cost of replacing the front doors of the municipal offices with self-opening ones.

This follows complaints by many residents, who say the present doors are heavy and hard to operate.

Cr. Mashford, who favors automatic doors, said he had received many complaints from young mothers with pushers and elderly people using the library.

Playgrounds

Sixteen mothers have written to council, pointing out the poor condition of playgrounds in the Williamstown area.

Equipment at many of these playgrounds is unsafe, they said, and the ground is often flooded in bad weather.

They would also like to see some equipment replaced with an adventure playground.

Their letter was passed to the recreation committee for further discussion, and council men are to lay, woodchips around equipment bases to stop the flooding.

Netball is a favorite

One of the most successful programmes started by Newport Outlets this year has been its women's netball team.

Each Wednesday for three hours, more than 60 women from all over the west gather at Newport's Armstrong Reserve for some friendly competition.

Outlets started the programme in April. Within a few weeks, they had 65 players and formed eight teams.

"We just advertised in shop windows, and the response was amazing," organiser Sue Gould said.

"We've got women coming from as far as Sunshine and Kensington."

The programme is designed to give women a chance to get out and mix, said Sue.

"We're not out to make champions, just give them a chance to exercise and have a break from housework," She added.

"Most of the women have either never played, or haven't played since school days...so they're not worried about being shown up by better players."

The women, who have about 40 children between them, pay 50 cents a game. That pays for the umpire and child-minding at the centre at 43 Mason Street, Newport.

Purses, money and a watch are also among the collection.

A boy's Sky rider cycle has been at the police station since it was found on a vacant block of land at the corner of Verdon and Perry streets, Williamstown, on August 21.

Another cycle, a "Roadster", was found outside 80 Douglas Parade, Williamstown, on September 24 and an Eans cycle with high handbars was found in Aitken Street, Williamstown, on November 7.

New valuer appointed

Mr. David Cox, will resign his post at Altona Council to become Williamstown's new city valuer.

His appointment was confirmed at the council's last meeting. He was chosen from three applicants interviewed by the mayor and other council officers in late October.

Mr. Ian Morris, Williamstown's city valuer for five years, resigned last month to return to Tasmania.

Barry first, Altona were comfortably poised at 2/75 with Forrester and Duggan in fine form.

However, both were dismissed without addition to the score and when Ken Hansen also went, the game had swung in Sunshine's favor.

David Jarrett and the tail-enders provided some much-needed resistance, but Altona was finally dismissed for a meagre 131.

Sunshine opened their innings cautiously determined not to lose a wicket by stumps.

They looked like achieving their objective until slow bowler Mike Calaz came on for the last over and grabbed two valuable wickets to have Sunshine 2/18 at stumps.

SECONDS
The put up their best batting performance for the season when they managed 134 against Sunshine. Michael Oram top scored with 58.

In reply Sunshine were 1/10 at stumps.

Brett Martin took the bowling honors with an excellent 5/29.

In reply Altona declared at 6/125 with Jeff Taylor, Joe Grassby and Gavin Scholes all scoring well.

Centrals were 0/13 at stumps.

Despite some brilliant bowling by Rick Purser, the fourths are in a heap of trouble against Richmond Union.

The fourths dismissed them for 82 with Purser taking 9/22, but in reply could only manage 54 with no batsman reaching double figures.

Richmond Union were 3/18 at stumps with Purser once again starring with 3/0.

In reply they scored 6/86 with Cody getting 37 and Ferris 18.

Willi bats improving

After a couple of inept batting displays, Williamstown showed they had turned the corner when they scored 6/199 c.c. against Ivanhoe.

Bill Fowler (55) and Barry McConnell (57) were the stars of the innings while skipper Barry Watson (24), John Dalton (21) and Shane O'Brien (25 not out) also made useful contributions.

Fowler dominated the early scoring before being dismissed with the total at 78, and then it was left to McConnell to take up the initiative.

Getting good support from the other batsmen, McConnell didn't let anybody down and looked set to bat through to stumps until he injured his leg.

Bill Fowler took up to role of runner, but was run out.

Williamstown first innings: Peter McNish c Kennedy b Tucker 2, Bill Fowler c Clough

b Kennedy 55, Barry McConnell 57, Barry Watson c Pearsall b Ryan 24, John Dalton b Ryan 21, Greg Tweedy c Harris b Ryan 8, Shane O'Brien not out 25, Tom Ferris not out 0. Stumps 6/199 cc.

SECONDS

the day.

After dismissing Ivanhoe for 111 (P. McTaggart 4/8, N. Speakman 4/33, L. Dowling 1/14, K. Tweedy 1/25) Williamstown rattled on 1/115 in only 93 minutes.
